

Ridgewood View Park Reservoir & Pump Station Project

Spring 2013

A new reservoir and pump station in the current Ridgewood View Park location has emerged as the preferred approach to replacing aging, critical water facilities and improving the reliability of the water supply in the West Hills.

Using community input, established project criteria, and cost information it was determined that an irregular shaped reservoir that more efficiently fits into that corner of the park was the best solution. Results of the selection process were presented at a neighborhood meeting in December 2012.

The public is now being asked to help update Ridgewood View Park's appearance and amenities. The park will be disturbed by reservoir construction and TVWD and Tualatin Hills Park & Recreation District have been drafting park conceptual redevelopment plans based on previously collected neighbor input (see back).

To learn more about the draft plans and provide feedback please attend the next neighborhood meeting on March 13 from 6:00-7:30 pm at Ridgewood Elementary. There will be a short presentation at 6:15 and project staff will be on hand throughout the evening to answer questions and take comments.

Project Schedule

Planning and design are moving along on schedule. TVWD and THPRD plan on presenting a final draft reservoir and park design package to the public later this spring. The goal is to have new facilities constructed by the Fall of 2015.
